Call for Papers ISI 2011 und IuK 2011

12th International Symposium on Information Science

17th Annual Conference of IuK-Initiative Science

9.-11. March 2011

University of Hildesheim

Information and Knowledge: global, social and free?

The 12th International Symposium on Information Science and the 17th Annual Conference of IuK-Initiative Science will be held under the overall title Information and Knowledge: global, social and free?

For wide parts of the developed world the internet can be seen as ubiquitous. More powerful technological infrastructures, a growing range of services and tools that alleviate the creation and publication of knowledge, and a new so-called net generation have brought about a change leading to a participative web as the new pre-eminent medium.

Aspects of the internationalization and multilingualism of knowledge processes, questions of social and technical adaptability, and connectivity and participation in information access and use are becoming more and more important, first and foremost for professionals and organizations but also for end users and for civil society in general. The conference will serve as a platform and forum for the discussion of such issues.

The ISI 2011 conference is a joint event of the German Higher Education Association for Information Science (HI) (www.informationswissenschaft.org/index\_en.html) and the IuK (IuK-I) (www.iuk-initiative.org). ISI 2011 will be held at the University of Hildesheim (www.uni-hildesheim.de/en/index.htm) under the management of Prof. Dr. Christa Womser-Hacker (www.uni-hildesheim.de/en/womser.htm).

Call for Papers ISI 2011 Hildesheim: Submission deadline long/short contributions 25. October 2010

HI, being a science and education organization, is primarily interested in science-based and education-related contributions in all areas of research, whereas the IuK- Initiative mainly encourages contributions with respect to the promotion and development of domain-specific information and to the transfer of knowledge. Contributors should specify for which part of the conference their paper is intended.

Particularly desired are papers with the following topics, but also those which cover any subject in the broader field of information science including neighbouring disciplines such as computer science, economic science, economics, law, politics and administration, psychology and linguistics.

- E-Learning, E-Science
- E-Society, E-Culture, E-Commerce
- Globalization of information processes
- Human-Computer Interaction, Usability, Mobility
- Information Behaviour, Information Literacy
- Information Infrastructure
- Information Management and Knowledge Management
- Information Retrieval
- Internationalization of Information and Knowledge
- Multimedia, Multi Modality, Multilinguality
- Open Access, Open Education, Open Innovation
- Quality Management und Evaluation
- Social Web, Collaborative Media
- Visualization

Papers written and to be presented in English are welcome.

Submission

The following types of contributions may be submitted. Additionally, students and doctoral students are encouraged to present their research in special sessions.

1. Long papers (10-12 pages)
2. Short papers (3-5 pages)
3. Posters (1- 2 pages)
4. Panel suggestions (1-2 pages)
5. Students' presentations
6. Doctoral thesis presentations

1. and 2. Long/short contributions

The contributions have to be original unpublished works. They should be uploaded in electronic form (MS Word/RTF-Format, ODT) using the conference tool at www.isi2011.de. Peer reviewing will be provided by at least two members of the international programme committee. The style sheet and guidelines for the format design of the contributions can be downloaded at www.isi2009.de.

The deadline for 1 and 2 is: 25. October 2010

Notification of acceptance: mid-December 2010

The deadline for providing the revised manuscripts: 17. January 2011

Any further questions can be addressed to the programme and conference management: Prof. Dr. Christa Womser-Hacker (womser@uni-hildesheim.de)

3. Poster

You can make a contribution to the conference by demonstrating ongoing research with one poster, paper size A1. The poster will be shown and can be commented on in the entrance area of the conference site. In addition, you should submit an article (maximum length of 2 pages, according to the format guidelines of ISI 2011 style sheets). Once accepted, the article can be included in the conference proceedings.

The deadline for the posters: 25. October 2010

Notification of acceptance: mid-December 2010

The deadline for providing the revised posters: 17. January 2011

The poster presentation can also be uploaded to the conference tool or can be sent to the Poster Chair: Prof. Dr. Vivien Petras (vivien.petras@ibi.hu-berlin.de)

4. Panel suggestions

We provide an opportunity to hand in suggestions for panels. The proposal should include the topic of the panel, a short description of its objectives, the name of the panel chair and potential participants (in general, between four and six people). Panels should not extend beyond 90 minutes.

The deadline for panel suggestions: 25. October 2010

Notification of acceptance of panels: mid-December 2010

Proposals for panels should be sent to: Prof. Dr. Christa Womser-Hacker (womser@uni-hildesheim.de)

5. Students' presentations

There will be student sessions organized by students of information science. We encourage students of information science and related disciplines to present their point of view, research, projects or work in progress on the subject Information and Knowledge: global, social and free?.

You can offer either a presentation (10-15 minutes) or a poster as you prefer.

Proposals (outline of 2-3 pages) are due by 25. October 2010 and can be sent by email to stud-isi-2011@uni-hildesheim.de.

Notification of acceptance will be announced mid-December 2010. Once accepted, your contribution can be included in the conference proceedings. The deadline for providing your contribution (max. 5 pages) to the conference proceedings: 17. January 2010.

Give it a try - you won't regret it!

Any further questions can be addressed to Katrin Geist (geistk@uni-hildesheim.de)

6. Doctoral thesis presentations

Doctoral students are encouraged to present their research in a special dissertation session, with short presentations (10-15 minutes) and discussions.

Contributors should submit a poster (paper size A1) as well as a written draft (maximum length of 5 pages, according to the format guidelines of ISI 2011 style sheets) outlining the dissertation project. Posters may be submitted as PDF files.

The deadline for doctoral thesis presentations: 1. December 2010

Proposals should be sent to: Prof. Dr. Christian Wolff (christian.wolff@computer.org)
